President's Weekly Post

By Timothy Daniels

Forbes presents an interesting question, especially considering this month's literacy theme. How do people learn most effectively?

There are three pillars of learning that have been discovered through research. The first is construction, which we learn when we build or make things. Secondly, the ability to learn through cognition, which learning happens when we think about things, make observations and process feedback from our environment. The last type of learning that I am going to discuss is the community learning process. This type of learning happens when we are attempting to survive and thrive among a group of our peers that share our practices, and we want to be able to do what he/she is doing.

I am sure there are other "learning process" philosophies out there, but I wanted to share this idea from Forbes' perspective for this week. Thanks for reading this and I look forward to seeing each of you at this week's meeting. If you need us or have any ideas or suggestions, we are always open for listening and working together to continue to make this the best Rotary Club in the world.

The quote for this week is by Hilary Hinton:

If you are not willing to learn, no one can help you. If you are determined to learn. NO one can STOP YOU.

Sept 30th Meeting Will Not Be Live Streamed On Facebook

By Kathleen MacDonald

This is a heads-up: the September 30th meeting will not be live streamed on Facebook. Kathleen MacDonald and Ken Dresser will not be available to perform the AV (audio visual) technical services. We appreciate your patience while the defacto AV staff has schedule conflicts. If anyone would like to learn the AV setup, please contact Kathleen and Ken for the minimal training required.
