Last Week's Program

Last week Joelle Teachey with Trees Upstate explained 'tree equity' and how her organization is working to plant trees in low income neighborhoods and at schools. Trees Upstate was founded in 2005 as a response to sprawl. Aaron Davis with Trees Upstate asks, "how can we get trees in front yards?" The 2022 City of Spartanburg comprehensive plan addresses the shortage of trees in low income areas. Trees Upstate is going to establish a Workforce Development program that will put 30-40 people through training in landscape management to address this need.
