Announcements:

Sean: Mental Health-Suicide meeting at Chips 7:30 Friday.

Santa on the Green will be on November 27th. We have a table for outreach... come on over and participate.

John Hoover: Announces that we have 28 grant recipients.

The big event for honoring our recipients will be on Monday right after Thanksgiving. We should have a good membership turnout for this event.

John Lee: It's that time of the year that we ring the bell for the Salvation Army.

December 3rd you can sign up for 90 minutes (or more). Stop & Shop on Villa Avenue.

Chad and Sean: On November 18th, (that's this Friday) 7:30am at Chips Restaurant there will be a meeting about children's mental health. All are invited. Cyber Bullying also a problem for our kids.

Just Because $$$$:

Sheryl: for Salko Farm, our presenters for today. For John Hoover, for all the work he did to organize our 28 grant recipients.

Bob Vossler: for our speakers, Jane & Chris Salko.

bottom to bowl contention in only one season.

Mary: has little hurricane damage and sold her apartment in only one day... Yay...

Dan: His girls are doing great in hockey, even were on the team that beat the girls.

John H. : A Gilbert & Sullivan revue will be at the Riverside Church in Greenwich. Contact him to get a link.

John Lee: noted the wonderful attendance today (over 30) and discussed his procedure at Bridgeport Hospital... a great place..

Program:

Salko Farm: Jane and Chris Salko have an operating farm on Greenfield Hill. Hidden off Hulls Farm Road is a ten acre spread where horses are boarded and lessons are given. It is a quiet (to the rider) place for a mental and physical retreat from the 'rat race' just a short distance away. An incredible 25 miles of riding trails criss-cross the region and one can get away from it all. Chris grew up there, and is blest with a special kind of life that has almost disappeared from our area in Fairfield County.

nd year for Paddle Fest. Last year we had more than 100 registrants of all ages and experience levels. Everyone had a great time - whether they were racing, or just hanging out enjoying the beach, the good weather or the fun atmosphere," said Jay Tini, the event chairperson. "Paddle Fest is a chance for folks to have a great day, and do some good. Funds raised here are put right back into the community. We award grants to local non-profits, and scholarships to local high school students, and even use some proceeds to support international goodwill projects. It's a win-win," he continued.
