Did you know: The Earth's inner core is 760 miles in diameter and is growing at a rate of 1mm per year. Geologists are able to measure with such accuracy using seismic waves, measurements of the magnetic field, and differences in the gravitational forces around the Earth, despite the fact that the furthest humanity has only ever drilled into the very edge of the outer mantle through a gap in the Atlantic Ocean between Brazil and West Africa.

“Laughter is timeless, imagination has no age, dreams are forever.”
