Did you know: China's infantry is woefully ill-equipped. They have to share a radio between a fireteam, lack NIJ IV-rated armor, and scarcely use optical sights. This is because China's infantry is more of a military police/defense force rather than an invasion force. China hasn't seen real combat since they invaded Vietnam after the US withdrew and troop morale and discipline is low. The PLA is a "paper tiger" of sorts.

"Treating people fairly and with civility is not a bad thing... It would be good for our country if political leaders actually took that to heart."
