Happy Dollars for special guests were plentiful this week as we had family members and a New York Rotarian visiting, as well as our speaker, Dr. Alaina King. Thank you for your interest in filling out her survey. She received 14 responses. Her experiences with clients from different walks of life and circumstances, as well as insights on dealing with those who may be suicidal were very informative. There were several questions for her, and personal stories shared. With the realization that we all have been, or will be, exposed to mental health issues and trauma at some point, supporting each other, and the organizations that focus on mental health, is so important.

Next week, we will see another aspect of trauma and mental health services with a visit from Fin, a dog trained to support veterans with post-traumatic stress. Details are in the calendar.

No one won the raffle this week, so the pot is growing!

PICTURE and SELFIE SHARING!

There are many stories of vacations, family visits, happy/sad events. If you'd like to share some pictures of your daily adventures, even if you can't make a meeting, email them to nianticrotary@gmail.com and we'll put them in the Scallop!
